THE PEOPLE'S PARTY.

There is no tangible reason to believe that the power of organized wealth, as a political force in our government, can be overcome except through the medium of a third party. That power is supreme in the old political organizations and is master of their machinery. While money and privilege dominate our national affairs, the exactions upon industry will continue to weigh upon the masses of the people and the present mountains of private indebtedness will increase, while the conditions which render the liquidation of debt all but impossible will become hopelessly worse. The millions who today realize the doom that hangs over nearly every form of industrial aspiration, and see the humiliating servitude of the old parties to the consuming rapacity of capital, are naturally turning for relief to the People's party, which as yet is untrammelled by any corrupting alliance with the world's conspiracy of usurers.

The People's party represents the just aspirations of humanity. The corner stone of its platform of principles is its demand for an adequate money supply, including the free and unrestricted coinage of silver and gold at the present American ratio. This reform strikes at the root of the infamous process by which money lenders are absorbing the wealth of the world.

The power that owns our President, that controls Congress and that for more than twenty years has dictated our financial policy, has its seat in Europe, where it is absolute over industrial life through its control of national indebtedness amounting to $26,000,000,000, which with loans to States, counties municipalities, corporations and individuals, brings the aggregate to at least $100,000,000,000. That is the power that imperils the world today and is paving the way for social cataclysms as the only escape from new forms of degrading servitude.

This power has obtained formidable proportions by destroying the primary function of one of the money metals, thus forcing a ruinous contraction of the currency and imposing on mankind an enormously enhanced and cruelly dishonest measure of values. It has involved the most stupendous conception and realization of plunder that ever sprung from the brain of avarice and is today throttling and robbing the forces of production in our country.

The propriety of naming the cause of silver, combined with the money question, as the central reform to which the People's party is devoted, should command unqualified recognition. Until that is won the attempt to gain other reforms, meritorious though they be and sure to come in due time, will be futile. There can be no emancipation without the control of our finances by the people and for the people. There is not a ray of hope except in driving the colossal money syndicate, with its crushing power and debauching influence from the government of the United States.—Denver News.

Utopian Journalism.

Last week the Appeal took occasion to allude to Arthur McEwen's new venture—that of running a newspaper without advertisements—as Utopian journalism.

No one realized that it would be a success from a cold financial standpoint, even McEwen was not sanguine, but the result showed that the style of journalism adopted by McEwen had a great deal of metallic ring of business about it.

The News Company refused to handle it, and at once the town wanted to see what there was in the Letter that the News Company would not sell.

That it roasted De Young and President Cleveland was sensationalism enough, and the newsboys neglected the other papers to sell this particular one.

Over 15,000 copies were sold, and on Sunday McEwen was walking along Montgomery street with his pockets bulging with $20 pieces, and wearing a contented look on his face.

The charge he makes in his letter that the daily newspapers are slaves to the business end of the office, is true.

McEwen has two things in his favor which the public appreciates; he has the courage to say what he thinks, and his pen has never been silenced with money. This is a rare combination.

Some men who have never been bought; lack the courage to say what they think, and many who have the courage lack the power to resist a financial overture.

McEwen's Letter will be published weekly, and he proposes to rip plenty of people up the back in the style of which he is alone the master.—'49 Journal.
